

My family history: evaluating the project

Today we are going to spend some time evaluating the project we just finished in Social Subjects.

Evaluate means: to make your mind up about something.

The aims:

- To understand more about your own identity
- To understand more about the history of people who have come to Scotland
- To investigate the different cultures we come across in Scotland
- To investigate your family history

Evaluating the project

What have we learned about?

•

What have we learned about our Scottish culture and other cultures?

What have you learned about yourself, your identity, and your family?

I have learned that

Placemat exercise

What did you most enjoy doing in this project? Why?

What didn't you enjoy? Why?

Challenge

You are going to show what you have learned about Scottish culture and your own identity in this project.

Do this by choosing one of the following:

1. Make up small A5 poster with short phrases and pictures OR
2. Write a couple of paragraphs about the project.
