ART IN TRANSLATION

AN EXHIBITION
BYRE THEATRE

8th TO 26th FEBRUARY 2016

FREE ENTRY 10AM TILL 10PM

The work in this exhibition is the latest edition of an ongoing collaboration between the AHRC funded research project 'Transnationalizing Modern Languages' and Castlebrae CHS and Drummond CHS in Edinburgh. Over the last three years pupils at both schools have been exploring issues of translation in different artistic media. We see translation as a creative and transformative process which allows new meanings to be created and forms reinvented. Superficially, the two bodies of work in the exhibition have little in common, yet they are both examples of the process of cultural translation through which the artists have found ways of finding a personal voice as they move between forms.
