

This is a screenshot of consent form from the survey that participants will see. Only the participants who agree to this can continue the survey.

Consent:

By continuing with the survey, you are consenting to the following:

1. You have read and understood the introduction to the survey.
2. Your participation is voluntary, and you are free to stop the survey at any point.
3. Information collected will be analysed by the research team at the University of Bristol to help us understand pedestrian behaviour for building design.
4. You understand that after the study the data will be made “open data”. You understand that this means the anonymised data will be publicly available and may be used for purposes not related to this study, and it will not be possible to identify you from these data.
5. Your consent to the survey has two stages. You will be asked to ‘agree’ to take part at the beginning of the survey, and to ‘submit’ the survey at the end. Submitting the survey is the final stage of the consent process.
